"That's the thing. When I'm talking to kids, kids like me and my friends, I let them know. I let them know that they can be whoever they want to be. I always use that box statement because that's it. Area codes are your box. An area code can define your outcome if you let it. Be different."

DELANIE WALKER TIGHT END / TENNESSEE TITANS

"I think social justice means something different to everybody. The way I've thought about it, making a difference with our underprivileged or unfortunate youth in our area spoke to me."

COREY LINSLEY CENTER / GREEN BAY PACKERS

"I think it's great not only for athletes, but for non-athletes, too, to start speaking about things that they either don't like or that aren't going right in this world. For us athletes, this is a platform that we need to utilize to show the kids and the next generation that it's about love, joy, peace and harmony. If we all can change ourselves mentally, love one another and want everyone to have success, this will be a better world."
